Widespread in England by 1815, a paler beer with a hoppy kick, the IPA has come a long way from its humble beginnings in 18th-century London. Likewise, our homes at Abrazo have come a long way with the IPA showcasing that evolution. This beautiful two-story open living concept is like no other floor plan we've previously built. The flexible space provides an abundance of natural light through carefully thought-out windows including a view out to the front from your kitchen sink. With the owner's suite located downstairs, you'll have no excuse not to grab your favorite IPA from the fridge and go out and enjoy this great New Mexican weather from your covered porch.
